THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Your Spiritual gifts, it seems, are always going to be perceived by the church through the lens of interpersonal relationships. That activity (gifts without love) is described as just a bunch of noise: a "resounding gong" or a "clanging cymbal". Kids today would describe it this way: blah, blah, blah. Meaningless. Worthless. Under those circumstances, your Spiritual gift of teaching becomes the spiritual gift of blah, blah, blah.

Can you imagine such a plan on God's part? I'm going to do my work in the church through the people of the church. If their relationships with one another are not right, then they will not benefit from my work. It will all be dependent upon their love for each other. No love, no power. I don't know about you, but I probably would not have planned it that way. That is an absolutely astounding move on God's part. So here is the question it begs: how is the "lens" between you and the others in your church? Is it such that the church is able to receive God's "qift" through you? Have you maintained such loving relationships with your church that your Spiritual gift actually has meaning in their lives? Or is time to pull out the glass cleaner and get to work on that lens..."
